GianPaolo Lattanzio is an Italian-Canadian actor, singer, dancer, and creator born in Peterborough, Ontario and raised all over the world. He is a theatre, film, and voice actor.

GianPaolo is most known for his portrayal of the role of Stiva (Anna Karenina/ GBTS), Andrew (Carnival of Munsch/ George Brown Theatre School), Tarzan (Tarzan – The Musical / Kanata Theatre), and Seymour (Little Shop of Horrors / Belleville Theatre Guild).

GianPaolo aspires to one day become a teacher and coach so that he can help creatives develop themselves into flourishing, confident artists – the same way that his teachers have done for him.

In his free time, he enjoys origami, brushing up his character voices and imitations, and practicing Italian with his mum and niece.

GianPaolo wants to spark the flames of passion within you that also lie within him. He believes that everyone has a story that they are drawn to, and he hopes to be there when you find yours.
